

Noonan Syndrome Foundation's Privacy Policy

1. INTRODUCTION

The Noonan Syndrome Foundation (NSF) is the leading 501(c)(3) non-profit, charitable Noonan syndrome (NS) organization. Our mission is to Support, Educate, and Advocate for those with Noonan Syndrome.

This policy describes the Noonan Syndrome Foundation's collection and use of users' personal information (e.g., information that identifies a specific person, such as full name, postal address, telephone number, email address, or credit or debit card number) where that information is not otherwise publicly available.) It also describes generally the Noonan Syndrome Foundation's practices for handling other information (e.g., interests, demographics and site usage) collected from you, through us or from a third party to the extent such information is associated with a particular device, user or user account.

By using this site and/or the services, you agree to the terms and conditions of this privacy policy. If you do not agree to the terms and conditions of this privacy policy, do not use the site or the services.

2. INFORMATION WE COLLECT

Personal Information

"Personal Information" is the information that identifies you as an individual, such as name, postal address, telephone number, email address and credit or debit card number.

Personal Information You Submit

We collect personal information when you submit it to us, including but not limited to when you submit a donation, register for or subscribe to certain events, products, or services, create a profile, participate in a sweepstakes or contest, take a survey, use an interactive feature, or participate in a forum.

Personal Information We Receive from Third Parties

We may receive personal information about you from third parties, including, for example, information about your transactions, purchase history, or relationships with various product and service providers, and your use of certain applications. For example, if you access an online service through a third party connection or login, such as Facebook connect, that third party may pass certain information about your use of its service to us. This information could include, but is not limited to, the user ID associated with your account, any information you have permitted the third party to share with us, and any information you have made public in connection with that service.

Other Information

"Other Information" is any information that does not reveal your specific identity, such as browser information; information collected through cookies and other technologies, demographic information, and aggregated information. We may combine Other Information with your personal information, and when we do, we treat the combined information as personal information.

Other Information You Submit

We collect other information when you submit it to us. It may include your age, gender, education, occupation, financial information, interests, photos, connections, and comments.

Other Information We Receive from Third Parties

We may receive other information about you from third parties, including but not limited to, demographic data, information about your interests, and information about your activities on other websites.

Other Information We Collect Automatically When You are Online

Personal data is collected when users provide personal information that is not publically available to the Noonan Syndrome Foundation, for example by registering through the site and donating funds. The personal information that you provide must be true, accurate and complete and all registration details (where applicable) must contain your real name, address and other requested details.

Aggregated information, such as information on traffic patterns within the site, is collected by the Noonan Syndrome Foundation through various methods: IP Addresses: We collect IP addresses through the site. An IP address is a number that is automatically assigned to your computer whenever you're surfing the web. Web servers, the computers that "serve up" web pages, automatically identify your computer by its IP address, and when you request a page from the Site, our servers log your IP address. The site does not link IP addresses to anything personally identifiable, so although your session will be logged, you will remain anonymous to us.

Use of Cookies

The Noonan Syndrome Foundation may use cookies and other tracking technologies (including browser cookies, pixels, beacons, and Adobe Flash technology including cookies), which are comprised of small bits of data that often include an anonymous unique identifier. A cookie is a small data file that most major web sites write to your hard drive for record keeping purposes when you visit them. Cookies allow us to measure activity on the site and to improve your user experience, for example by remembering your passwords and viewing preferences. Cookies are used by the Noonan Syndrome Foundation to measure activity on the site and make improvements and updates based on which areas are popular and which are not. We will make available cookies, containing non-personally identifiable information such as IP address and pages viewed, regarding your activity on the site to certain third party providers with whom we work, in order to show advertisements relating to this site that may be of interest to you. Most browsers are initially set to accept cookies. If you'd prefer, you can set yours to refuse cookies or to alert you when cookies are being sent. However, it is possible that some parts of the Site will not function properly if you do so.

Children and Privacy

We will not knowingly market to or collect personally identifiable information from children under age 13.

3. HOW WE USE YOUR INFORMATION

We use the personal information we collect from and about you for the purposes set forth below. Please note that we may use and disclose other information for any purpose, except where we are required to do otherwise under applicable law. If we are required to treat other information as personal information under applicable law, then we may use and disclose it for all the purposes for which we use and disclose personal information.

To improve the quality of our services, we may combine the personal and other information we collect with information that you provide to us in connection with us.

To provide and manage our relationship and/or services, we may use the Personal Information we collect from and about you to provide our products and services and features to you and to improve upon our services, including, without limitation: to process and fulfill your donation, to send you information about your relationship or transactions with us, to measure and improve those services and features, to personalize your experience; to allow you to comment on content, participate in online games, contests, promotions or rewards programs, to provide you with customer support, and to respond to inquiries.

To contact you, we may periodically send promotional materials or notifications related to our products and services and/or the products and services of third parties to the email or postal address you provided. To help make these promotional materials more relevant to you, we may use and combine any of the personal and other information we collect to assist us in sending you promotional materials. If you want to stop receiving promotional materials from us, please let us know by contacting us as info@teamnoonan.org. We may also use your email address to respond to inquiries or requests you make to us.

4. HOW WE SHARE YOUR INFORMATION

Information Made Public Through Use of Our Services and User Privacy Settings

Certain features on our website or other online services give you an opportunity to interact with others and us. These may include forums, message boards, chats, and creating community profiles. When you use these features, you should be aware that any information you submit, including your name, location and email address, may be publicly available to anyone, including other users, search engines, advertisers, third party application developers, and anyone else with access to our online services. We are not responsible for any information you choose to submit and make public through these interactive features.

Our Disclosure of Information

To allow third-party service providers to assist us in providing and managing our services, we may make your personal and other information available to certain third-party service providers, such as contractors, agents or sponsors, who help us manage or provide our products and services by, for example: developing or supporting products and features; sending email messages on our behalf; processing payments; fulfilling orders; delivering subscriptions; auditing; processing data or statistics; and serving, customizing or delivering marketing or ads.

California Residents: If you do not want your Personal and Other Information shared with these third parties for marketing purposes, please let us know by contacting at info@teamnoonan.org.

To protect the rights of the Noonan Syndrome Foundation and our users, there may be instances when the Noonan Syndrome Foundation may disclose your Personal and Other Information, including situations where we have a good faith belief that such disclosure is necessary in order to: (i) protect or defend the legal rights or property of the Noonan Syndrome Foundation or its affiliates, or their employees, agents and contractors (including enforcement of our agreements); (ii) protect the safety and security of users of our products and services or members of the public; (iii) protect against fraud or for risk management purposes; (iv) comply with the law or legal process, including laws outside your country of residence; or (v) to respond to requests from public and government authorities including public and government authorities outside your country of residence.

To complete a merger or sale of assets, if the Noonan Syndrome Foundation sells all or part of its business or makes a sale or transfer of its assets or is otherwise involved in a merger or transfer of all or a material part of its business, Autism Speaks may transfer your Personal and Other Information to the party or parties involved in the transaction as part of that transaction.

5. NOTICE

Means of Notice and Choice

This privacy policy is the primary means by which we provide you with notice and choice about our collection and use of your personal information. If we ask for specific personal information that will be used in a manner different from what is described in this privacy policy, we will inform you at the time of collection.

Privacy Policy Changes

The Noonan Syndrome Foundation may modify this Privacy Policy as necessary.

Data Retention

We will retain your personal information for the period necessary to fulfill the purposes outlined in this privacy policy unless a longer retention period is required or allowed by law.

Linked Websites

Our online services may also be linked to sites operated by third parties, and may carry advertisements or offer content, functionality, games or applications developed and maintained by third parties. Some of these third party sites may be co-branded with the Noonan Syndrome Foundation logo, even though they are not operated or maintained by us. The Noonan Syndrome Foundation is not responsible for the privacy practices of any such third parties, and once you leave our online services via a link, enable a third-party service, or click an advertisement, you should check the applicable privacy policy of the third-party site.

6. SECURITY

The Noonan Syndrome Foundation uses reasonable administrative, technical, personnel and physical measures to safeguard personal information in its possession against loss, theft and unauthorized use, disclosure or modification. Unfortunately, no transmission of data over the Internet is guaranteed to be completely secure. It may be possible for hackers or other third parties not under the control of the Noonan Syndrome Foundation to intercept or access transmissions or private communications unlawfully. While we strive to protect your personal information, the Noonan Syndrome Foundation cannot ensure or warrant the security of any information you transmit to us. Any such transmission is done at your own risk.

7. HOW CORRECT OR UPDATE YOUR INFORMATION

You can access or modify your information and modify your preferences by contacting us at info@teamnoonan.org
